

I am extremely concerned by the abuse of our airwaves for partisan politics. Sinclair Broadcastings decision to force their stations to carry a clearly anti-John Kerry several weeks before the election is shameful.

I listened to an interview with their VP, Mark Hayman, on CNN yesterday morning. While claiming that the company's decision and purpose was non-political, his rhetoric (and "spin talk") was most definitely partisan code language.

I expect the FCC to be as responsible about overseeing and challenging companies like Sinclair with the same intensity that it seeks to censor the public airwaves over issues of in-appropriate language and behavior.

Thank you for hearing my concerns. Please represent the interests of ALL the people.
